Gentlemen:

Attention of President

Enclosed, herewith you will find duplicate Owner's Declaration, covering a shipment which we have previously cleared for your account.

Kindly have this document signed by a member of the firm and notarized as indicated and return as soon as possible so as to complete the entry papers in the Custom House. The Tariff Act specifically provides that no owner's rights or claims are to be recognized nor are refunds to be made to such owner unless the said party's signature is on file with the entry.

Very truly yours,

S. H. POMERANCE CO. INC.

Gentlemen:

Your letter of December 22nd, marked "Attention of the President" has been referred to me for reply. The affidavit which you ask to have executed is open to the same objection as the first one sent us by you. As I explained to your representative, we were not the owners of the merchandise imported, but rather the nominal consignee, and unless there has been a claim for refund by Dr. Hirsch, I fail to see the purpose of filing a declaration after the delivery of the article involved. However, if you still wish a declaration as nominal consignee, and will send me another form, I will see that it is executed.

Very truly yours,

Secretary.
